POLICY	DATE PASSED, AMENDED OR REVIEWED
B-BO-01 – Quality Board (Amended: June 16, 2018) 4-H Ontario’s governing board will be composed of members who are qualified to do an excellent job and perform to their potential for the organization. The Board will actively encourage organization Association Representatives (ARs) to run for Director Board positions. To become a Director: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. ARs shall not have immediate family (i.e., spouse, partner, siblings, parents or children) employed by 4-H Ontario 2. ARs shall not have been dismissed from the role of Director by the Ontario 4-H Council Board of Directors in the past 5 years 3. ARs cannot stand for re-election if a Director resigns regardless of reason until completion of term duration plus one year Organizations require people to serve on their Board, as Directors. Being a Director carries specific roles and responsibilities. Organizations grow and prosper when their Board of Directors are committed to the cause and are able to deliver on the following: 4-H ONTARIO REQUIRES PEOPLE TO SERVE ON ITS BOARD WHO ARE COMMITTED TO THE CAUSE AND WHO ARE ABLE TO DELIVER ON THE FOLLOWING: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understand what the 4-H program does in practice. • Understand what the current 4-H delivery model involves, and assist in implementing it in their local 4-H Association. • Participate in the discussions, keeping in mind the best interests of the provincial 4-H program as a whole. This may, at times, put you at odds with your local association or regional board. • Loyal support of the 4-H program. It is detrimental to the health of an organization for Directors to continually position themselves at odds with the policies and procedures of the 4-H program. • Decisions of the Board are made and based on collective wisdom of all Directors; therefore it is imperative that all Directors routinely provide input into issues before, during and after Board meetings. • Manage the business of the Ontario 4-H Council and the 4-H program. The membership at large entrusts the Directors with the management of the Council. Directors develop policy that is implemented through the Executive Director and staff on a day-to day basis. stakeholders and of which 4-H Ontario is made aware of at least 90 days in advance

- Lead by example with full respect to the 4-H Ontario Code of Conduct in an inclusive, transparent, and 4-H values based manner
- At least one representative (Association Representative) from a local Association attend the Annual General Meeting of the Ontario 4-H Council
- Active participation in 4-H Ontario teleconferences for volunteers in specific roles (i.e., Presidents, Vice Presidents, etc.)
- Ensure regional 4-H Ontario Staff are included on all Association email / mail information blasts

LOCAL ASSOCIATION EVENTS

- Encourage youth programming that teaches the core competencies of 4-H: judging and critical thinking, parliamentary procedure, communication and public speaking, hands on skill development and community contribution
- Associations will strive to hold youth events that highlight youth knowledge and achievement such as:
 - Awards Night(s) to honour youth and volunteer achievement (ensuring 4-H Ontario is aware of the date 90 days in advance)
 - Family fun/rally/sign up type event to assist in marketing the opportunities and recruiting new volunteers and youth members
 - An Association level judging event (inclusive of agriculture and life skills), and/or supporting participation in a Regional Judging Competition
 - An Association level “Go For The Gold” event, and/or supporting participation within Regional and Provincial “Go For The Gold” Competitions.

PROMOTION PRACTICES

- Promote the 4-H program to the general public
- Support and encourage youth members and volunteers to participate in Regional, Provincial, and National 4-H opportunities, including camps, conferences and competitions
- Leverage the Associations’ webpage on 4-H Ontario’s website to promote active clubs, events and key contacts and/or utilize other forms of social media promotion (i.e. Facebook, Twitter, Instagram) to promote Local Association activities.
- Follow 4-H Canada brand standards

Associations’ standing will be reviewed annually to ensure requirements are met. If there is evidence of a requirement that is not being met, the Ontario 4-H Council will review the status of the Association with the provincial body in order to rectify the situation. Membership privileges may be suspended if the Ontario 4-H Council is not satisfied with remedial actions.

Effective January 1, 2017

If an Association has not met the requirements of Financial Viability as described above, the following measures will be implemented:

1. 4-H Ontario funding opportunities that flow through the provincial office will be suspended with no compensation for any missed funding once the Association has complied.
2. Secure 4-H Ontario website access is suspended to entire Association,

Club Leadership consists of at least 2 Volunteers in good standing. If there are not at least two (2) Volunteers in Good Standing as Leaders for a Club, the project will not be accepted as an official Club and Members will not receive credit. 4-H Ontario is committed to ensuring all youth have a quality and healthy experience, and Volunteers have adequate training and support to keep all Club participants safe. Parents of our Youth expect that we will ensure the safety of youth by ensuring our volunteers are in good standing. Club Leaders should plan programming with safety as the priority. Programs should be planned in such ways that eliminate situations where there would be access to a Youth in private by an adult. This includes ensuring that Leaders/Volunteers are never alone when transporting youth to events. In this way, you are limiting the risk of harm by an adult to a child and avoiding false allegations. Another important strategy to ensure safety is to be sure to welcome parents to drop by anytime unannounced so that you create an open atmosphere. If you are sitting on a board of directors, you must lead by example and complete the engagement learning process. You are the leadership of the local 4-H Association and therefore share the responsibility with 4-H Ontario to ensure screening and training is completed by Volunteers and making sure our youth are protected from harm. Everyone has a role to play in ensuring 4-H is a community of caring for each other (youth and Leaders); all protecting and supporting each other to ensure all Youth and Volunteers are safe and healthy.
B-BO-22 – 4-H Canada Duty to Report (Established: June 22, 2019) As a staff member or a volunteer in a youth organization, your responsibility is to be aware of and alert to signs of child abuse and inappropriate conduct and to report those concerns. Recognizing Child Abuse and Neglect Physical abuse is any deliberate physical force or action, by a parent or caregiver, which results, or could result, in the injury to a child. It can include bruising, cuts, punching, slapping, beating, shaking, burning, biting or throwing a child. Using belts, sticks or other objects to punish a child can cause serious harm and is also considered abuse. Neglect occurs when a caregiver fails to provide basic needs such as adequate food, sleep, protection from risks, education, clothing or medical treatment. It also includes leaving a child alone or failing to provide adequate supervision. If the caregiver is unable to provide the child with basic needs due to financial inability, it is not considered neglect, unless relief has been offered and refused. Emotional abuse is a pattern of behaviour that attacks a child's emotional development and sense of self-worth. It includes excessive, aggressive or unreasonable demands that place expectations on a child beyond his or her capacity. Emotional abuse includes constantly criticizing, teasing, belittling, insulting, rejecting, ignoring or isolating the child. It may also include exposure to domestic violence.	2019

4-H Ontario Policy Manual

4.1.2 BOARD OPERATIONS

Section 4.1 – Ontario 4-H Council Board Policies

Revised: January 23, 2021

Sexual abuse occurs when a child is used for the sexual gratification of an adult or an older child. The child may co-operate because he or she wants to please the adult or out of fear. It includes sexual intercourse, exposing a child's private areas, indecent phone calls, fondling for sexual purposes, watching a child undress for sexual pleasure, and allowing/forcing a child to look at or perform in pornographic pictures or videos or engage in prostitution.

Grooming is usually a slow, gradual and escalating process of building trust and comfort with a child. A child sex offender can use a variety of subtle, manipulative techniques to gain access to a child and increase the chances that the child will agree to his/her sexual advances. Child sex offenders build rapport with the adults around the child so that his/her involvement with the child is welcomed and encouraged. Grooming typically moves to test the child's boundaries (and the child's ability to protect him/herself) through the telling of sexual jokes, engaging in roughhousing, backrubs, sexual games, etc., in an attempt to see if s/he is at risk to tell someone. Grooming typically progresses from non-sexual touching to 'accidental' sexual touching. This usually occurs during play, so the child may not identify it as purposeful, inappropriate touching.

What to Watch For

As a volunteer or staff providing services to youth, you need to watch for signs of possible child abuse or neglect. There are two main types of signs: indicators and disclosures.

Indicators

Many indicators - especially those of a behavioural nature, such as anxiety or developmental lags - may be signs of other problems. However, a series of indicators observed over a period may be a youth's reaction to abuse or neglect and may appear as dramatic changes from the child's or youth's normal behaviour. Volunteers or staff may also observe patterns of conduct that are consistent with indicators of "grooming". Indicators alone do not prove child abuse or neglect; however, they signal a need for your applicable child welfare organization or police to learn more about the youth's circumstances. That is why indicators must be reported to your applicable child welfare organization or the police, as well as your provincial 4-H office.

Please refer to this document for a detailed outline of the forms of abuse and possible physical and behavioural indicators to watch for:

https://www2.gov.bc.ca/assets/gov/public-safety-and-emergency-services/public-safety/protecting-children/childabusepreventionhandbook_generalpublicbooklet.pdf

Disclosure

A youth may tell you directly that they are being abused or neglected. Disclosure might begin with one example to see how you react. In other cases, youth do not disclose directly but communicate what they have experienced indirectly – through their behaviour, emotions, art, writing, appearance, inquiries or discussions about fears, concerns or relationships. Youth also divulge information through indirect statements, statements with conditions (eg. "promise to not tell") or third-party statements (eg. "my friend's parent is hurting her").

Recognizing Inappropriate Conduct

Within the 4-H in Canada Code of Conduct there is an outline of the expectations and guidelines for everyone involved in 4-H activities. Conduct that conflicts with the 4-H Code of Conduct or other 4-H policies may not be against the law in other contexts, but it is still considered inappropriate and must be appropriately reported. For example:

- a violation of a youth's privacy or personal boundaries
- unauthorized contact with a child
- the use of drugs or alcohol during a 4-H event
- bullying behaviour, verbal or physical
- or other behaviours in conflict with the Code of Conducts or Two Leader Rule.

Please note that misconduct may be carried out by a youth member, for example, cyberbullying or drug use, and it must be reported as well.

Your Responsibilities

To report suspicion of abuse or neglect

If you have reason to believe that a youth is experiencing child abuse or neglect, then you are legally required to report your concern to the appropriate local child protection agency or police. You do not need to be certain. It is the agency's job to determine whether abuse or neglect has occurred or is likely to occur. 4-H Canada also requires you to report your concern to your provincial 4-H office.

To report suspicion of inappropriate conduct

Conduct not relating to child abuse or neglect, but which is inappropriate or in conflict with 4-H policies, must be reported to your provincial 4-H office.

To keep information strictly confidential

Keep all information in strictest confidence, including the name of youth and those accused, and the nature and details of the allegation. Do not discuss the matter with anyone other than the appropriate authorities and your provincial 4-H office for reporting purposes.

Guidelines for Reporting Abuse or Misconduct

4-H Canada is following the best practices for reporting developed by the Canadian Center for Child Protection. Below are the specific details.

Making your report of abuse

- Report immediately to local child protection agency or police service
- After reporting to officials, report to your local provincial 4-H office
- Maintain strict confidentiality

Recognizing Inappropriate Behavior and Misconduct

Within the 4-H in Canada Code of Conduct there is an outline of the expectations and guidelines for everyone involved in 4-H activities. Conduct that conflicts with the 4-H Code of Conduct or other 4-H policies may not be against the law in other contexts, but it is still considered inappropriate and must be reported. For example but not limited to:

- a violation of someone's privacy or personal boundaries
- unauthorized contact with a child
- disrespectful or discriminatory remarks with the intent to offend whether in person; by phone, electronic means or social media
- the use of drugs or alcohol during a 4-H youth event
- bullying behaviour, verbal or physical that compromises the safety or well-being of another
- sexual behaviour (inappropriate touching, intercourse) with anyone regardless of gender, age or consent at a 4-H event
- suspicion of theft of funds
- actions that jeopardize safety or result in serious injury
- or other behaviours in conflict with the 4-H in Canada Code of Conduct.

Minor Incidents

For minor breaches of the 4-H in Canada Code of Conduct, a review and discussion will be completed at the local level.

Serious Incidents

After receiving an incident report, 4-H Ontario may suspend a volunteer, or youth. This allows time for: review of the incident, verification of facts of the allegations, and a decision of consequences, which may include termination.

Appeals:

- Appeals must be made in writing within 30 days of a decision. For volunteers, If the dismissal is related to criminal charges, this period will be extended to 30 days beyond the final ruling of the court.
- Appeals are submitted to 4-H Ontario and are considered by the Ontario 4-H Council Grievance Committee.
- Appeals are to be accompanied by supporting documentation with respect to the initial decision or dismissal and as to the present and recent past good behaviour of the subject, and any other information to justify a request for the reinstatement as a youth participant or volunteer.
- It is at the discretion of the Grievance Committee to seek additional information and/or documentation from the subject in appropriate circumstances; however, shall be under no obligation to do so.
- The Grievance Committee needs to demonstrate fair and consistent review of both sides
- Appeal decisions will be made within six weeks of receipt of appeal.
- Appeal decisions made by the Grievance committee are final and will be communicated to the subject in writing.
